

Sprint 4 burndown chart

In sprint 3, we finished 45 story points. In this sprint, our velocity has remained stable as we finished 44 story points. This sprint each member has confidence and familiarity with the tech stack, which to us explains why we are able to remain consistent despite having stories to implement that aren't like ones in previous sprints. In future sprints as we gain familiarity with the Agile development methodology, we imagine that our velocity will remain consistent, and we will be able to complete more complex stories.

This sprint we managed to complete all of our assigned tasks.

